Did You Know?

Dryden Hall is now open 24 hours a day. Library too crowded? Room too noisy? Need a place to study or chat? As of last Friday, students can now head to Dryden when other campus spaces are full or closed.

Glory Days of Saint Mary's Baseball

It was the College's first sport, going back to 1872, with many talented alumni going to the major leagues over the years, including the four men who all took the field in the 1915 World Series. The most recent season looks like the glory days of Saint Mary's baseball have returned.

Women in Leadership Panel Kicks Off Series

SEBA's Executive Speaker Series begins Thursday, Nov. 3, 6–8:30 p.m. at the Soda Center with the Women in Leadership panel. Moderated by Moire Rasmussen (left), diversity and inclusion leader at PricewaterhouseCoopers, Tiffin Groff MBA '03, vice president of channel marketing for Peet's Coffee & Tea, Donna Uchida, chief of communications at Kaiser Permanente, and Amy Verneti '90, director of leadership recruiting at Google, will discuss how women leaders have changed—and been changed by—the workplace over the past decade.

SMC's Year in the News

In 2015-16, there was a record high of 918 Faculty in the News media mentions, a 39 percent increase from the previous high of 659, and 5,590 Saint Mary's mentions overall. The uptick in faculty mentions was the result of attention on SMC's literary trio of English professors Brenda Hillman, Lysley Tenorio, and Matthew Zapruder, who accounted for 55 percent of professor mentions. The College also benefited from interest in faculty experts on Pope Francis' U.S. visit.
