Proposed Catalog change Art History

Current:
AH 196 Senior Special Study
As a capstone to their studies, seniors in art history are required to work independently with a departmental faculty member in order to complete a thesis that displays their ability to think, read, and write about art as well as create works of art which express their own beliefs and interests. This course is limited to seniors in the major. Permission of the faculty member and department chair required.

New:
AH 193: Senior Thesis Seminar
As a capstone to their studies, seniors (and second semester juniors) in art history are required to work with a departmental faculty member and fellow majors on an in-depth study of a topic or topics within the history of art. The course consists of a series of directed writing assignments, a literature review as well as research in primary and secondary sources. At the conclusion of the semester students are expected to present their work at a departmental colloquium of faculty and students.
