Best-selling author Jesse Saperstein will share his compelling personal story of growing up with Asperger’s and what having a life well lived means. The sought-after motivational speaker and autism and anti-bullying advocate will talk about his experiences hiking the Appalachian Trail after college, skydiving and other passions and hobbies, most in service to autism awareness, the importance of being a blood donor and the battle against HIV-AIDS.