Myrna Santiago

The History Department will assess to what degree the senior thesis students produce in History 106 demonstrate they are learning the skills of the discipline we are teaching them, i.e., selecting appropriate primary sources, interpreting them competently, writing a historical argument persuasively, and contributing to the historiography.